SPECIAL TRAINER ROSTERS

Within the Pokémon games, there are battles which can be considered boss fights, ranging from Gym Leaders and the Elite Four to your rival or other recurring characters. This document lists in detail the teams for anyone who is important enough to be considered a boss; information such as Pokémon species, level, item, ability and moves can be found in this document. However, be warned; playing blind has its advantages, too! Only look below if you are sure you want to know what you're up against before you fight it (or if you're just exploring after finishing the hack...) Use Ctrl + F to find a specific person.

Note that there may be one or two trainers who have a "/"; in this case, the first thing shown corresponds to the Complete version, and the second to the Vanilla version.

Unovian Gym Leader REMATCHES

Blaze Black and Volt White 2 allow you to rematch the Gym Leaders outside of the Pokémon World Tournament, as well as inside. This means you can gain EXP and money off of them, as you are able to challenge them anytime you wish! All eight of the Gym Leaders you fight during the game can be found and challenged in one of the houses in Nacrene City.

Hoenn Gym Leaders

As some side-bosses within the game, you are able to face the nine Hoenn leaders - as well as the Champions - within Unova, outside the Pokémon World Tournament! You'll find most of the leaders somewhere in the town that corresponds to the badge order they have; for example, Roxanne, having had the first badge in Hoenn, is found in the city with the first badge (i.e. Aspertia). This rule stays true until the last three leaders, where things are mixed up a bit to stop them doubling up on types with the actual Unova leaders. Finally, you can find Steven and Wallace within Icirrus City; they're only challengeable after the credits as a result.

I was unfortunately unable to actually have the Hoenn Leader music play in the battles, but aside from that, it's basically what I would have done if the Hoenn Leaders were actually holding the badges, sans the slight level decrease. You are able to challenge them as many times as you wish. They have one team for before you beat the Champion, and one for after.
